READ THIS

MR. TOM LEWIS,
Sacramento,

Dear Sir:—I have investigated very carefully the results of using your fertilizer in my orange and olive orchards in Fair Oaks and find that the conditions of these orchards justify me in saying that your fertilizer is, in my judgment, superior to any I have experimented with. Last fall my orange crop was 50% greater than in any previous year.

I will gladly recommend your fertilizer, confident that its use will fulfill all expectations.

Yours truly,

INTRODUCTORY

In presenting this, the twenty-fourth volume of the Sacramento City Directory, the publishers desire to thank all who have contributed to the success of the work, either by patronage or in co-operation in furnishing information. This year the management has adopted the ditto system instead of repeating names.

POPULATION

The present volume contains by actual count 30,241 names, exclusive of married women, single girls who have no occupation, and children, and also Japanese and Chinese, an increase of 1,630 names over the preceding edition. Using the usual Directory multiple of 2½ this gives a population for Greater Sacramento of 75,602.

Respectfully,

THE SACRAMENTO DIRECTORY CO.

Sacramento, the Capital City

[By S. Glen Andrus, Secretary-Manager Chamber of Commerce of Sacramento, Inc.]

Sacramento, the capital city of the State of California, is one of the most fortunately located communities on the entire Pacific Coast. It is the geographical center of a very large portion of California's productive area, and is, therefore, the natural distributing center of a vast agricultural empire. This empire, the principal portion of which is the Sacramento Valley, is richer in resources, climate and scenery than any other like area in the United States, and consists of over 12,000,000 acres of valley and foothill land, bisected by one of the great waterways of the country. It is being developed agriculturally at a rapid pace. It is capable of sustaining a very dense population.

The assets of the seven Sacramento banks, comprising the Clearing House Association, aggregate over forty million dollars. This is a very large average per bank, and is an unfailing indication that the business of Sacramento is on a sure foundation. These same banks have deposits of over thirty million dollars, and their clearings aggregate approximately eighty million dollars annually.

The increase in Sacramento's business is reflected in the following figures:

In the old days when Sacramento's reputation lay chiefly in its being the Capital City of the State, portions of the city were subject to occasional overflows from the Sacramento and American rivers, at the junction of which the city is located. When the waters receded from the overflow lands, it naturally left pools of water here and there which became stagnant and formed good breeding grounds for mosquitoes. Consequently, there was in former times more or less malaria. Unfortunately, Sacramento at that time gained a reputation for being a malarial infested place, and, cities being in nowise different from individuals in this respect, it has been difficult for the Capital City to shake off this reputation. As a matter of fact, modern improvements and splendid levee protection have removed this condition, and Sacramento is now as healthy a city of its size as there is in the United States. The people of the city are alive to the necessity of maintaining a clean and healthy city and one that is immune from the flood waters of the two rivers which are of inestimable value both to the city and to the valley. For the purpose of making assurance doubly sure, the city during 1912 passed a bond issue for $887,000 to provide money for further strengthening the levees about the city and constructing a by-pass emptying into what is known as the Yolo basin, the by-pass being for the purpose of taking care of whatever excess flood waters may come in the future. In this connection, it is interesting to note that this flood protection plan fits in with and will eventually become a part of the great flood control plan whereby the flood waters of the Sacramento and San Joaquin rivers will ultimately be fully controlled.

It is not so easy to explain how Sacramento, in years past, acquired its reputation for being hot in summer. As a matter of fact, there is no city in the United States which has a more agreeable or better climate, when the entire twelve months are considered than has Sacramento. Its average humidity is less than cities nearer the coast, its changes of temperature are less sudden and severe and its nights in summer are so uniformly cool that blankets are needed for protection when sleeping. Sacramento's climate is a happy medium between the changeable climate on the sea coast and the weather experienced further in the interior of the State. The fact that there is maintained in Sacramento an ostrich farm in which the birds are as healthy and as strong as nature intended them to be, speaks volumes for the climate of this city. Further demonstration of the climate's good qualities is found in the apricot and almond orchards which blossom in the early spring. The delightfulness of the climate is further emphasized by the fact that oranges hang from the trees the year around and ripen from four to six weeks earlier than they do in the southern portion of the State.

But Sacramento's reputation for good climate need not rest upon the statements of those whose interests it may be to promote its welfare. Those who are interested in the subject need only consult the records of the United States Weather Bureau for the past thirty-five years and read what Mr. N. R. Taylor, local United States weather forecaster, says regarding it over his own signature.

The business importance of the Capital City of California is further emphasized by the fact that three transcontinental lines of road enter the city, a fourth is headed this way and the surrounding country is served by interurban lines which extend far into the agricultural sections. The third transcontinental line was given to Sacramento when the State Railroad Commission ordered the Santa Fe road to put in joint through tariffs with the Central California Traction Company, whose line extends from Sacramento to Stockton. Several electric interurban lines are contemplated and some are in the course of construction. During 1912 the Sacramento & Woodland Electric Road was opened, thereby giving Sacramento additional means of communication with the west side of the great Sacramento Valley. The Oakland & Antioch Railway has been completed and still more closely connects the Bay Cities with the Capital City, and another line is projected from Sacramento to Fair Oaks, Orangevale, Folsom and on to the famous Lake Tahoe. Sacramento's transportation facilities are further supplemented by the Sacramento River, which is navigable from its mouth to Red Bluff, a distance of nearly 300 miles. More than a million dollars is being spent to widen the river near its mouth, and thereby permit the waters to scour the channel instead of overflowing in flood time.

Comparatively few people realize that even in its present condition it is fourth or fifth in carrying importance of the rivers of the United States. It is annually transporting approximately $30,000,000 worth of products and more than 200,000 passengers patronize the splendid passenger boats maintained by three transportation companies between Sacramento and San Francisco.

Sacramento's rapid growth is being accompanied by wonderful changes in the physical conditions and appearances of the city. Less than six years ago the Capital City of the State bore a strong resemblance to a typical Mexican city, in so far as its business progress was concerned. Rarely was there a building which exceeded two stories and there were practically none that were truly modern. During the past five or six years, however, modern office buildings have been constructed everywhere. Six new and completely modern hotels have been erected; three new bank buildings, and Sacramento now has all the appearances of a completely modern, up-to-date, and hustling business and commercial center.

Sacramento County has now taken first place among the fifty-eight counties in the value of its agricultural products. It is, for example, the center of the greatest deciduous fruit belt in the world. Within a radius of forty-five miles of Sacramento is grown fully seventy-five per cent of all the deciduous fruit grown in the entire State. From Sacramento is shipped annually fully 21,000 carloads of fresh, dried and canned fruits.

It's geographical location has always made Sacramento a good jobbing center, with a business of fully $40,000,000 annually.

Sacramento County now produces more than $125,000 worth of plums, more than $100,000 worth of dried prunes, more than 2,100,000 pounds of dried peaches, nearly 80,000 tons of fresh peaches and over 10,000 cases of canned peaches. The apricot production is fully 30,000 cases of canned product, nearly 500,000 pounds of the dried product and nearly 2,500,000 pounds of the fresh fruit. It is also among the first counties in the production of grapes, which now exceed 28,000,000 pounds, while 23,000 cases of grapes were canned and 500,000 pounds of raisins were dried. Sacramento County usually sends the earliest cherries to the market, the total production being valued at close to $75,000. In dairy products the county ranks well up, as it produces nearly 1,500,000 pounds of butter and half a million pounds of cheese.

More than 400,000 acres of land are now devoted to farming and the value of its farming property easly reaches $45,000,000. Sacramento County produces corn, oats, wheat, maize, beans, potatoes, alfalfa, green hay and, in fact, almost every variety of farm products.

ALWAYS THE CASE
People who contribute the least to support a Directory knock it the hardest. Most of those who say the meanest things about a Directory are the ones who "sponge" and "borrow" from the man who needs his book or he would not have bought it.

SACRAMENTO DIRECTORY CO'S

Directory of Householders
1914

In the following list, the Streets, Avenues, etc., are arranged in alphabetical order without regard to location. The number of each building on the street is given in numerical order, and opposite the number is printed the name of the householder or householders. Houses that remained vacant at the close of the canvass have the word "Vacant" printed opposite the number. Houses with no numbers are not given. To find the occupation of householder, refer to the alphabetical list of names. For location of Streets, Avenues, etc., see pages 20-22.

To phone a person whose name does not appear in the City Telephone Directory, look said person up in alphabetical section, ascertain their house number, refer to "Householders' Guide" for corresponding street and number and the householder or householders names appear, they being in phone book if there is a phone in the house. If no phone in the house neighbors on each side will be seen before and after name, also people opposite.

CAUTION!

Pay no money in advance to itinerant Directory Canvassers. We are led to mention this from the fact that certain parties have been fraudulently using our publications as specimens and by that means collecting moneys in advance.

Before signing an order, see that it has the name of Sacramento Directory Co., printed thereon

We ask no payment until the work is delivered, and our solicitors have strict orders not to take payment for either advertisements or subscriptions.

Ivy Hair Tonic

Will Positively Restore Your Hair

BALDNESS IS NOT HEREDITARY

All Diseases of the Scalp and Hair Falling are almost Always the result of Lack of Attention and Proper Care. After years of neglect the scalp becomes deadened, affording no chance for the blood to properly nourish it, and in consequence the hair dies and falls out. A good Tonic is as Necessary to the Health of Your Hair and Scalp as food for your general health.

Ivy Hair Tonic is Guaranteed to Cure Dandruff and All Scalp Diseases and Will Grow Hair on Bald Heads.

Six Years of success in Sacramento is the Best of Recommendations.
